About The Author of York

Scott D. Butcher is a lifelong resident of York County. As a director and member of the executive committee of Historic York Inc., committee chair and past officer of Main Street York, and former director of the York County Convention & Visitors Bureau, Butcher has spent much of the past decade promoting York's history.

Butcher is an avid writer and photographer and has written and provided photographs for the York County Visitors Guide, Revolutionary York visitors guide, and RelocationLink: York County relocation guide. Articles on York's architecture have been published in Pennsylvania magazine and Showcase PA! He also created "Virtual York," (www.virtualyork.com), a Web site promoting the town's architecture and history, as well as the Main Street York Web site (www.mainstreetyork.org).

He is director of business development for NuTec Design Associates, Inc., an architectural and engineering firm that designed rehabilitation projects to several of the buildings featured in York. As a volunteer, Butcher has been instrumental in creating several events in York, including the annual Pear Blossom Festival and Patriots Days, an event focusing on York's Civil War history.

Butcher earned a B.S. in Marketing from the Pennsylvania State University and a Certificate in Professional Photography from the New York Institute of Photography. He is also a Certified Professional Services Marketer (CPSM) through the Society for Marketing Professional Services.

Butcher regularly photographs and writes about York's buildings, and he participates in local art shows where he displays and sells his work. He has also given walking tours in downtown York that focus on general history, Civil War history, architecture, and photography of buildings. Currently, Butcher is hard at work on his next book, an architectural guide to York City and York County.
